Swiss environmental, social and governmental (ESG) risk data provider RepRisk has added Italian-language sources and analysis to its coverage of ESG risks to meet growing demand from Italian customers for information on ESG risk factors related to public and private companies.

's database is already available in 13 other languages, including English, Chinese, Russian and Swedish.

"The addition of Italian further strengthens our database as a key due diligence tool used to effectively manage ESG risks," says RepRisk chief executive Philipp Aeby.
